Last Week's Program

Bill Barnet gave us an update on the Northside Revitalization project last week. He told us the project began with VCOM choosing the old Spartan Mill site to build their campus, which was an investment of $28M. He pointed out that many parties joined together for a singular purpose, the comprehensive transformation of a neighborhood long beset by poverty and its associated challenges. Some of the components of the project include mixed income housing, neighborhood improvements, cradle to career education and quality support services.
