Derrick Smith

Husband to Meghan and father to Moses (6) Solomon (4) Jonah (4) and Abraham (2 months). Featured in a documentary film on immigration reform from a biblical perspective (thestrangerfilm.org) and will appear in another documentary on PBS Frontline this coming October. Also on a panel in DC with Grover Norquist facilitated by Juan Williams. I surprised my wife with three weeks backpacking in Europe for our honeymoon. We were in Italy when they won the World Cup. I taught at Spartanburg and Dorman High Schools before founding SC Test Prep. (sctestprep.com) I skipped my high school prom to go to Academic Decathlon national finals with SHS. My name is in granite to the right of the front main entrance. I was in Normandy on Memorial Day in 2002 and saw President Bush on Air Force One and Jacques Chirac. I'm pastor of an intentionally multi-ethnic Southern Baptist church called Kaleidoscope. (Kscopechurch.com) I have the crossbar from the USC goalpost after we beat New Mexico State ending a 21 game losing streak in 2000. I lived in France one semester in college. I just started a business selling portable rechargeable cell phone chargers called FoneFuel. (fonefueltakecharge.com)
